Words of Encouragement

July 27, 2025

All Many Christians struggle to trust Christ amid acute suffering. We all battle feelings of doubt and discouragement when God does not save or deliver us from painful trials, heartbreak, illness, or hardship. Sometimes, we might even get angry and blame God for our suffering.

Yet Scripture teaches us to expect suffering as an inevitable part of this life and our calling as believers. "For it has been granted to you that for the sake of Christ you should not only believe in him but also suffer for his sake" (Phil. 1:29).

So how can we learn to trust Christ through the difficulties we suffer?

First, we can be encouraged to know that many people in the Bible endured extreme suffering. We must allow the Word of God to teach us how to face painful and challenging times with confidence, hope, faith, and trust in Jesus, who said, "I have said these things to you, that in me you may have peace. In the world you will have tribulation. But take heart; I have overcome the world." (John 16:33).

From Job's story we learn that suffering can be unrelated to anything we have done. Yet, since God allows suffering into our lives (for His divine purpose), we must not let suffering cause us to question His love for us. Job remained tenaciously faithful to the Lord. When we endure suffering, it proves the authenticity of our commitment to Christ and produces righteousness in the true believer.

"God has a plan for our lives, and surrendering to Him means we set aside our own plans and eagerly seek his."

When we suffer, Satan wants us to blame God. That was his plan with Job. Instead, like Job, may we let our pain draw us closer to the Lord. We must put our trust in God's divine judgement to discipline, correct, or redirect our lives.

It is imperative that we examine our hearts for sin and our spiritual walk for areas where God might desire to develop character, prompt growth, or lead us down a different path.

No matter what we suffer, pray and trust that God is working all things for our good and His higher purpose, knowing that we (who are in Christ) will emerge victorious in the end! (see Romans 8:28-39)
